

National Institute of Open Schooling
Lesson 27- Population Composition in India
Worksheet-27

1. Differentiate between urban and rural population?
2. The composition of rural and urban population is dynamic and proportion of urban population is continuously increasing. Observe your area and analyse how this change has been reflected in your area.
3. On the outline map of India, mark and label the Metropolitan cities of India.
4. Define sex ratio. In your view, what are major reason of decline of sex ration in India?
5. Observe the age composition of India. Describe any 5 characteristics of India's age composition.
6. 'India has a great linguistic diversity.' In light of the statement classify the linguistic families of India and describe their distribution.
7. Explain the religious composition of India and its distribution.
8. Describe the Schedule Cast population of India with the help of Map.
9. 'The Scheduled Tribes are not uniformly distributed all over the country.' Justify the statement with appropriate examples.
10. What kind of differences you observe in the literacy rate on the basis of State, Gender and Rural and urban area?